The Debt Proposition Accepted. Cablegrams from London yesterday an-nounce that the committee acting on behalf of the English holders of Virginia securities have voted to accept the terms of settlement agreed upon here between their representatives and the State

They have arrived at a sagacious conclusion, and now we can look to the Gene-ral Assembly with confident expectation that Virginia will also ratify the bargain and put the terms into the shape of laws.

The Governor has not yet transmitted to the two houses the correspondence that took place between the commission and bondholders' American committee. but he has no doubt been waiting for news from London and as soon as he reupon him to communicate all of the papers and along with them his recommendations irritating question will be a thing which will make his administration particularly memorable, for it will be a matter for publie rejoicing, as it will remove a considerable obstacle from our path.

Looking at it as a matter of State policy merely and without reference to any effect it may have had upon private and corporate enterprise, it is very bad for us always to be in hot water; always to have our revenues endangered by tax-receivable coupons, and our slightest appropriations called in question. By a settlement such as that new proposed the tax-receivable coupon will receive its eternal quietus, and we may easily calculate how much money we must reserve for interest, and have the balance to use as we see fit, free from questioning or criticism from our own citizens or others. With this settlement effected-with the old bonds cancelled and new ones issuedwe may go about our business with better heart than we have had for twenty years, and may utilize in other directions the resisting trespasses upon our rights.

What is a good thing for Virginia will also be a good thing for the creditors. They have rarely pursued a sensible course. but we should make some allowance for ginia and of the immense losses entailed on us by the war.

There are still many details to be put into shape and to be formulated into laws, and from time to time we may possibly hear of some "kicking" bondholders and new dangers that menace us, but we must try to bear with them patiently and go straight ahead to fulfil our part of the compact. All of the creditors will eventually fund their holdings, for the new bonds will soon gain standing in the money-markets when the financiers of the world learn that the debt is settled; that and that the great mass of the bondholders regard it as satisfactory and conclusive of all points at issue.

A Senator as a Detective. According to the New York World, Sens. tor W. E. CHANDLER, of New Hampshire, during the month of October last acted as a detective in the force of JOHNNIE DAVENpoer employed to spy upon the courts of that city to ascertain if any fraudulent naturalization papers were being issued.

The account says that for three days Mr. CHANDLER, disguised so that his best friend would hardly know him, sat in one of these courts and was a witness of all its proceedings. He was supposed to be one of Davenpost's common-place henchmen. and hence no particular notice was taken of him; but it is alleged now that he was greatest business street, where it will althe witness of much fraud, and it is stated that in his capacity of chairman of the Senate Committee on Immigration he will submit a startling report on the naturaligation subject.

He may make himself a witness before the committee, but he is not authorized to submit a report. The Immigration Committee never authorized him to do any such questionable work.

If Mr. CHANDLER does attempt to advertise himself and make capital for his party by virtue of this questionable exploit we trust that Major DANIEL or some other member of the committee will insist on he is possibly willing to make other aras he appeared, disguised as a tramp, with say, for the term that he hopes to have. alouch hat and green goggles.

If such an exhibit is filed in the case and gets into the hands of the sketchers of the comic papers, the learned Senator will wish that he had stayed at home and minded his own business instead of enlisting under Johnnie Davenport.

So Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, a Republican priety of entering Harrison's Cabinet. United States senator, was the first man to throw down the gauatlet to the monometallists at the present session of the Senate. The Democratic members of the man of the Committee or Senate Finance Committee stand four to and that he will accept. one, we think, in favor of the free coinage of silver-namely, Messrs. VOORHEES HARRIS, RANSOM, and CARLISLE as against Mr. McPuesson. The fact that Mr. STEWARD 18 on the same side is a good joke on the Republicans, who ever since the results of last month's elections became known have endeavored to pose as the opponents of It has been assumed that the President would veto any free-coinage bill that might be passed by Congress. But this assumption is based upon a further assumption that a Republican Senate may probably pass such a bill. These assump-tions may not "materialize." Mr. Hanmison will certainly do all he can to prevent the Senate from sending such a bill to him for his signature.

The Democrats are, after all, in no worse condition relative to free-coinage than the publicans. Some good result will yet follow. Bimetallism grows in popularity with the passing of every day; but it will be kept in the background in the presi-dential campaign. The bimetallists are abead of their time. That is all.

So the farmers and planters are flooding the United States Senate with petations in favor of the extension of the free-delivery term. system of distributing mail matter. We are glad of it. As we said last week, the rich and lesve the children of the poor uneducated. The free-delivery sys-tom may be "paternal" in its nature; but it is too late to raise that question. only people—that is, those of them residing in large cities—have had their letters delivered free for years. However, what with the various paternal schemes that now distract the public mind on the one hand and secure the endorsement of the business-men on the other, it may be set down that paternalism is not at a discount at this particular time.

Blaine-Harrison-Elkins.

The appointment of STEVE ELEINS, as he is familiarly but not by any means con-temptuously called, to be Secretary of War seems to have caused no little speculation amongst the politicians not only in Washington but throughout the country. Mr. Elkins has for years been known as one of Mr. Blank's most steadfast adherents—one who had stood by him through good and through evil report. Nay, Mr. ELEINS had a large part in interesting Mr. BLAINE in the railroad and mining schemes in West Virginia which have made him a rich man, it a rich man he is. Mr. ELEINS is the son-in-law of ex-Senator Davis, and has had the good fortune to be himself on the best of terms with Mr. Blank at the same time that through his father-in-law he was on the best of terms with President Harrison, whose custom it has been every summer to take his family to spend a portion of their time at Deer Park, Mr. Davis's mountain home. In a word, the relations between Messrs. BLAINE, HARRIson, and Elkins would have justified either the President or Mr. BLAINE (if he had had the power) in appointing Mr. Elains a ember of the Cabinet.

What does the appointment of Mr. Et. EINS mean? Well, it might mean any one of several things. First, Mr. Harrison is exceedingly headstrong, and ready at any time to make an appointment to please himself, whatever his Cabinet might say or do in opposition to his making such appointment. It is not impossible that he had some pet scheme of his own in view when he made up his mind to give a secretaryship to the son-in-law of his friend DAVIS. It is hardly possible that he hoped to detach Mr. ELEINS from Mr. BLAINE and secure his valuable services in the next Republican National Convention: for all such scheming is unnecessary; seeing that Mr. BLAINE will surely be the nominee of the Republican National Convention if he will agree to accept its nomination; and if he ceives it in an official form we may rely refuses to accept it, then Mr. Harmson will surely be nominated.

Secondly, for years the Republicans to the legislators. The settlement of this | have flattered themselves that they would carry West Virginia, and for as many years they have been disappointed. The daughter-State is as true to the Democratic party as the mother-State. Nevertheless, as we have said, the Republicans deceive themselves into the belief at every election that they can gain a congressman or two in West Virginia or secure that State's vote in the Electoral College for the Republican candidate for President. Perhaps Mr. Harrison hopes to carry West Virginia next November, and thus replace the votes which his party is likely to lose in Michigan in consequence of the districting of that State for the election of electors of President of the United States.

Mr. Elkins, however, may, after all is said and done, claim that he needed nobody's influence or good will to aid him in securing a Cabinet appointment. He is very popular in West Virginia, not only with the Republicans, but, as we think we are justified in saying, with the Demo crats. We do not know that he possess any peculiar qualifications for the office of energy which we were forced to expend in Secretary of War, but it is not necessary that he should. The head of a depart ment in Washington is often the head only in name. There are invaluable officials in every department—men whose services are indispensable to the proper conduct of their ignorance of the true situation in Vir- the business of that department, but the head is seldom or never one of them. We like the appointment for several reasons.

> The Soldiers' Monument. The House of Delegates' Finance Committee yesterday resolved to report a bill ending the appropriation by the General Assembly of $3,200 to pay for put-Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument at Rich-

This is not to be a monument to the gen erals of our army and admirals of our navy but to the men who served in the ranks. there is in Virginia no wish to disturb it, It will be a grand granite column, model led after Pompey's Fillar, set on Libby Hill (Marshall Park). Already $15,000 has been spent on it and EZEKEEL has been employed to make the bronze figure of an

Senator Faulenen, of West Virginia, says that "the secret of ELKINS's political as well as business success is that he is the staunchest friend I ever saw, and a man must be true to his friends if he succeeds in anything."

A "Paper-Chase" in Fauquier.
[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]
Warnerson, December 16.—On Tuesday evening a great many of the sportsmen of this vicinity were collected on top of Lee's ridge, shout a quarter of a mile from town, to make their start in a "paper-chase." The evening was unusually mild and many spectators had driven out to enjoy the scero.

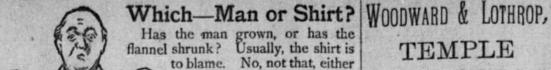

Mr. James N. Maddux was out on Mr. Wade's famous "Fire-Brand, which was sold soon after the chase to Mr. Smith, of New York, for five hundred dollars. The other participants were Mr. E. R. W. Barker, Mr. Ernest Hays, Mr. Frank Barker, and Mr. Hardy Fair. Mr. Fair's horse gave him a swore fall at one of the jumps, and Mr. E. R. W. Barker's horse ran into a wire-fence in refusing a stone wall and both horse and rider were painfully cut. Apart from these accidents the amusement was great. A "Paper-Chase" in Fauquier.

G ip continues to prevail here. Fate of Gentus.

John Paul Bosock would appear to be the latest victim of the bunco game, says the New York Reservier. The book on poker at-tributed to W. J. Florence he wrote, and he has been cheated out of fame and cash at one and the same time by premature publication.

We are glad of it. As we said last week, to deliver letters free to the city people and refuse so to deliver them to the country people is as if the States should provide for the education of the children of Bronchitis, or any Pulmonary affection.

you're buying new ones, start right. Have them washed only with Pearline and they won't shrink. As for the old ones, Pearline can't make them any larger, but begin with it at once and it will keep them from growing smaller. It will keep them from the wear and tear of the washboard, too.

As one wash is sufficient to rain flannels, great care should be exercised as to the use of the many imitations which are being offered by unscrupulous grocers or peddlers. Pearline is never peddled 314 JAMES PYLE, N. Y.
